Mrs. Pelagin Ridel, a widow, aged eighty, who died at her home, No. 202 Littleton-ave., a month ago, left a will, which is causing some gossip in the neigh-borhood. Mrs. Ridel was worth about $20,000. She lived alone, and depended entirely on the good office of her friends, being in delicate health and nearly blind. During the last few months of her life her old friends were not received at the house, and she was rrounded by people of recent acquaintance. The will was not drawn by a lawyer, and replaces several wills previously made by her counsel. John W. Taylor, The principal beneficiaries are Mr. and Mrs. George S. "What do clothing dealers know about shoes," said a cobbler to one of our customers. "These shoes you want repaired haven't any cork in the soles and are stuffed with rags." Whereupon we were roundly abused and the cobbler ordered to make a good pair of shoes, although ours had given excellent service.

Last week the aforesaid customer confessed the above, adding that the cobbler's "custom" shoes proved perfeet frauds.

Our shoe buyer agrees to eat every pair of shoes sold by us as "cork soled" that can be shown to have been made minus the cork. The "stuffing" that customers occasionally find under a worn sole, is a piece of felt placed there to prevent squeaking. It doesn't always do it, but is the most successful device used for that purpose. We not only sell good shoes for men and boys, but we "stand by them" if we go wrong.

We are also prepared to repair in the best manner at moderate cost any shoe sold by us.

RUTHERFORD. The announcement in yesterlay's Tribune that "Dick," the famous Rutherford rooster that would not frow in court, was on exhibition at the poultry show in the Madison Square Garden, New-York, created great interest here. The bird is exhibited by Charles W. sturgess, the defendant in the suit brought by Mrs. Ida Townsend, a neighbor, to recover damages for the loss of a rooster, which, she alleged had gone into Mr. sturgess's yard and never come back to his roost. "Dich" was produced in court, but a jury disagreed as to his ownership. It was afterward conceded by the plaintiff that, whatever had become of her own bird.
"Dlck" belonged to the Stargess family. Mrs. Sturges and yesterday that a big party from Rutherford would attend the show to-night and see "Dick" in his novel surroundings. She said the defence had been taken by surprise at the trial last Thursday, as it was under-stood that the rooster case would be dismissed. Justice

An Age of Progress.

When Cleveland's Baking Powder was first offered the United States Army in place of the one then used, the Commissary Department, under authority from Washington, January 21, 1891, analyzed and compared both brands. As a result of the analyses, Cleveland's was selected, and since that time has been the baking powder used in the U. S. Army, and every proposal for army supplies specifies that the baking powder must be "equal in quality to Cleveland's."

In using Cleveland's Baking Powder, remember that on account of its superior strength it takes about one-third less to do the same work.
